

National Weather Service Aviation Weather and High Density Altitude Operations

AVIATION WEATHER Reid Wolcott, our local National Weather Service (NWS) Meteorologist and the Aviation Weather Program Manager, will speak on Las Vegas weather considerations and relevant NWS products for pilots.

DENSITY ALTITUDE Stephen Ruks, CFII and ATP will discuss operating in High Density Altitude conditions, aircraft performance considerations, as well as the aerodynamic factors affecting our flying this summer. As the weather warms up in the Las Vegas area, DA will play a larger role in our preflight planning and aircraft performance. Also, local and non-local case studies.
